These results were pesticide use include application for structural and due to the thermal instability of these compounds vertebrate pest control. DPR, however, uses a broad during GC - TID analysis. This condition can lead to denition for agricultural pesticide use and includes high or low bias during quantitation (Zaugg and others, uses on rights-of-way, landscape maintenance, com 1995), and all the reported values for these two modity fumigation, and other urban applications as part compounds are estimated. of their database. When the DPR data were tabulated by commodity, these uses were separated and added to the Methidathion and chorothonil were not county urban use data. For analytical purposes, the included in the original PUF collection eficiency magnitude of pesticide use in the study area was experiments. Other research groups, however, have compiled on a monthly basis. This allowed for a better eficiently collected both methidathion (Glotfelty and comparison between agricultural and nonagricultural others, 1986, 1990a) and chorothonil (Rice and pesticide use and areal coverage. Chernyak, 1997) on PUF. Reporting levels for these Detection frequencies for most of the compounds compounds were not estimated, but the laboratory analyzed were generally highest when the wind was extraction and analytical eficiency for both compound from the south at all three sampling sites (table 2). The was greater than 95 percent. SMA site had the highest averaged...
