Not illustrated. 1849 Excerpt: . . . in men, duration, and without article set forth. --Inadmissible. The mode of redress. The relinquishment of legislative and appellant judicature by the British Parliament, or the repeal of 6th George I. The practice of alteration or suppression of Bills to be removed by law. The perpetual Mutiny Bill to be repealed, and a new Mutiny Bill, with the Declaration of Right, the number of men and articles of war set forth, and the whole to be for two years. Laws necessary to legalize judgments by the House of Lords and Kings Bench in England--to explain Poynings law. Limit the regulation of his Majestys forces. The modification of Poynings law to be radical and by act of Paliament, without leaving the shadow of a grievance to alter. These are the only terms I made with the Government. Whether they are honourable to me, or serviceable to the public, the calm sense of posterity will judge. Such was the note which Mr. Grattan subsequently annexed to the copy that he retained in his possession. The Government were much perplexed by the Resolutions intended to be proposed by Mr. Grattan; and finding that the parties they had to deal with were inexorable--that they neither could be prevailed on to accept office, or to delay the measures;--being at a loss what to do, like most men in similar situations, they did nothing; they neither assented nor opposed, and thus the measure was left to take its own course, under the...
